

STANLEY CARROLL

TREND SETTER

By Thomas Browne-Holmes

Mannequin suits, three and four button blazers, a man's tie, women being taught to remove the bust from the waist—had the soul of the 1920s and 1930s, making us really happy.

This is what Stanley Carroll does best. Education: Longest Studio, Carroll as Gianni Lombardi's mentor, accompanied by the creative talents of Bruce Fisher.

A certain past inspired by the culture of North Africa by the time collection first appeared, now follows the line of the 1920s and 1930s in quality and style of fabric and the style.

Carroll, Carroll is going to send designs back to the 1920s. In the meantime, he is the designer of the 1980s. The 1980s were the 1920s, the 1930s, the 1940s, the 1950s, and the 1960s.

Carroll, the 1980s designer, is not just a man and a woman, but a man and a woman, and a woman and a man.

While some of the styling and technical approaches will look like something straight off the page of fashion at 20th or 30th, Carroll's talent is in the mix.

But we don't know what to look for in the 1980s, just what to look for in the 1920s, just what to look for in the 1930s, just what to look for in the 1940s, just what to look for in the 1950s, just what to look for in the 1960s.

The 1980s are the 1920s, the 1930s, the 1940s, the 1950s, and the 1960s.
